

My name is Amy Ortiz. I come from a small town named Teton Valley. I am the youngest of three. My parents are from Durango, Mexico. I decided to come to the University Of Idaho because I had heard really good things about their academics. And, I fell in love with the feeling of the town. It is small but yet still has everything you need for it to feel like home. I am currently majoring in Business and Accounting. I hope to further my career after my bachelors and go to law school. I am in college for not only myself but for my family. I study hard so that one day when I own my own law firm my biggest supporters can truthfully say that they are proud of me. My parents came here to give us a better life and I hope one day to repay them. That's what keeps me going on sleepless nights doing homework. The smile on their faces with tears in their eyes saying "You did it!" Thank you for reading.
