

Wrapping up my senior year of college is bittersweet. It's hard to know I am doing everything for the last time, but these last memories make me realize that I have had a great four years at the University of Idaho. I have played in the Vandal Marching Band all four years of college and have loved every minute of it. I am not sure if I will ever be able to go to a football game as a normal spectator after my time in marching band! My sorority has given me friendships, memories and opportunities that could never be replaced. I will always cherish my time in the Greek community as an undergraduate. Working in the Dean of Student's Office has given me not just a job, but a support system and family to help me through the last stretch of college. Going to school to become an educator teaches you things, but no class taught me nearly as much about teaching and learning as working at the Writing Center on campus. While it is hard knowing the end to my college career is quickly approaching its end, I am excited knowing that these friendships and memories will continue on. I am excited to graduate and start my teaching career! My next chapter may not be in Moscow or at the U of I, but I know when I move to Boise I will still have friends and connections everywhere I go thanks to the University of Idaho.
